ATTENTION: WORKSHOP DATE ADDED FOR REQUIRED INCLUSIVITY TRAINING

We have so many NEW AIs that we had to schedule an additional date for this required training. Please join us October 23rd for another presentation of:

SoIC Inclusive Classroom and Lab Environments
INFO East Room 150 at 11:00 AM.
Register now at signupgenius.

Luddy Hall – The School of Informatics and Computing 124,000 square feet new addition to be completed December 2017. – IU Newsroom

Making Travel Plans??
Whew! Fall is here, the trees are turning colors, AND the semester is halfway over. You know what that means; the holidays are just around the corner! Before you make travel plans, keep in mind that your teaching commitment requires you to stay in town until final grades have been calculated. Also, you must return before the first day of classes in the new semester. Coordinate your travel plans with your instructor. Specific information can be found on page 6 of the SoIC AI Handbook.

AI Training Opportunities Going Fast!
Have you attended all of your AI workshops this fall? We’re coming to the end of our AI Training schedule, but there are still a few CITL events available! Please check your status and register for the workshops needed to fulfill your training requirements, now.

Reader Feedback Welcome
We want AIM to be a resource for you as an AI, so we welcome your ideas for articles and content. If you have any comments, concerns, or ideas for expanding or improving this newsletter, please contact us at soicait@indiana.edu.

Be the Impact:
“Very helpful in lecture! Explains material clearly. She is easy to approach so it makes it easier to ask questions. She is very patient when working with us and helps us find the solutions without giving us the answer. Very knowledgeable about the course.”

(Comments regarding an AI from SoIC AI Evaluations – Fall 2014)